New County FHA Committee Members Named

Benjamin A. Curtis, Jr., County Supervisor, Farmers Home Administration, for Oxford and Androscoggin Counties has announced that a new committee for the Agency's county committee has been appointed in each county.

Arthur L. Cummings, of South Paris is the newly appointed member of the Oxford County Committee. His appointment was effective July 1st and is for a term of three years. Mr. Cummings operates a dairy farm in South Paris and is familiar with the situation of local farmers. The other two members of the committee are Donald W. Buzzell of Fryeburg, Chairman, and Martin W. Colby of Rumford. Mr. Cummings succeeds Alpheus Jackson of Oxford whose term expired July 1st. No member of the committee is allowed to succeed himself.

The newly appointed member of the Androscoggin County Committee is Gen. W. Torrey of Poland. Mr. Torrey is a successful dairy farmer in his community and is also well versed in the local farm situation. This committee is headed by Charles Tobberts of Lisbon Falls and the other member is Harold A. Libby of Auburn. Mr. Torrey replaces Albert Angell of Turner whose term expired on July 1st.

Every agricultural county in the country has such a committee to help the Agency's County Supervisor adapt loan policies to local conditions including farm credit needs. Before any money can be borrowed through the agency, the applicant must have the approval of the county committee. In the case of a real estate loan, it is the duty of the committee to value the farm under consideration. The committee usually meets once a month to act on applications.

A Silver Tea was enjoyed after the program and enough money donated to buy the doll kits to make for our friends overseas.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

I am pleased to announce that under the Accelerated highway program the State Highway Commission recently decided to continue the West Bethel reconstruction to include Railroad Street. The original plan was to stop at the intersection with Church Street.

We have received word that the State shovel for our State Aid work on the East Bethel road will be available next week. Work on that road will be started very soon. The digging up and repairing of the Vernon Street sewer is also well underway, this has been delayed for some time due to so much rain.

Varied Program Planned For Conservation Field Day Aug. 10

One of the biggest farm equipment demonstrations ever put on in Oxford County will be one of the main features of the Oxford County Soil Conservation District Field Day to be held August 10th at the Donald Mason farm in West Paris.

The program gets under way at 10:00 a. m. and will continue all day. The Mason farm is a typical upland farm where conservation practices must be used to conserve soil, fertilizer and moisture. The theme of this field day is likewise based upon conservation and grassland farming with many of the more basic, but important practices plainly visible. Strip cropping both for row crops and for grass seedings will be evident on several fields. The land fitting and seeding demonstrations that will be carried on during the day will also be handled in contour strips.

The following farm equipment dealers will participate in these grassland demonstrations: Bethel Auto Sales, International Harvester dealer of Bethel; Bell & Monro, International Harvester dealer of Lewiston; Albert Twitchell, International Harvester dealer of Oxford; Maine Potato Growers, Massey Harris dealer of Lewiston; Oayma Colby, Ferguson dealer of South Paris; Auburn Tractor Company, Ford dealer of Auburn; Wallingford Equipment Company, Case dealer of Auburn; and it is hoped to have some of the John Deere equipment dealers present at the field day.

In addition to several methods of fitting and seeding grassland these farm equipment dealers will also demonstrate hay-making and silage harvesting equipment. Another highlight of the day will be a chicken barbecue dinner to be served at noon by Waldo Chalk, a popular Maine poultryman. Tickets are now on sale for this barbecue and must be purchased in advance. These tickets are available from most farm equipment dealers; from the Soil Conservation Office at South Paris; from Arlie Holman of Dixfield; J. C. Conant of Canton Point; or from the following supervisors of the Oxford County Soil Conservation District: Philip G. Andrews, Fryeburg; Robert D. Hastings, Bethel; Bertrand Buck, Buckfield; or Warren Abbott, of Rumford.

The Supervisors of the Oxford County Soil Conservation District are very grateful to H. P. Hood and Son of Portland; Oakhurst Dairy of Portland and Goodwin's Dairy of South Paris for their contributions of milk and ice cream that will be given out with the barbecue dinner.

Another feature of the field day will be a demonstration of the Oxford County Soil Conservation District tree planter. Summer Burgess of the Maine Forest Service will be on hand to answer questions and explain some of the features of this planter. The planter was purchased by the District this spring with the financial help of the following: the Oxford Paper Company of Rumford; the Diamond Match Company of West Peru; Ralph Burghum of West Peru;

There will be a program for the women folks to be conducted by Mrs. Ruth DeCoteau of the Oxford County Extension Association. Frank Bailey, Farm Service Division of the Central Maine Power Company will be on hand to show a safety film and a farm freezer film.

There will be plenty to see for everyone so come early and stay all day. Be sure and get your ticket if you want some of that barbecue chicken.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Veterans with GI mortgages who may wish to cut down their interest charges can make extra payments to the bank at any time, to reduce their loan balance, the Veterans Administration pointed out this week.

Manager M. L. Stoddard, Veterans Administration Center, Togus, Maine said that home-owning GI's who have accumulated some money can save themselves substantial interest payments, as well as pay off their mortgage sooner, by making lump-sum payments to the bank in addition to their regular monthly payments.

The minimum extra payment a veteran may make is at least the amount of one month's regular payment, or $100. For the convenience of the veteran, he can make double payments each month or make lump-sum payments from time to time, Stoddard said.

The practice of making advance payments on a mortgage also is good business, as it provides insurance against a time when the veteran may be hard-pressed for money. At such a time the veteran may have such extra principal payments re-applied to keep his loan from going into default, Stoddard said.

Question and Answer

Q— I am a Korean veteran and I'm thinking of opening a business. I'll have to wait for several years in order to accumulate enough cash. When I'm ready, will I be able to get a GI business loan, or is the program due to expire soon?

A— You'll have plenty of time to get your GI loan. The Korean GI Bill loan program will not expire until ten years after the end of the present emergency.

Q— If I get a GI business loan, will I have to operate the business myself? Or could I turn it over to someone else to run?

A— You will be required to devote your personal labor or supervision to the business, either on a full-time or part-time basis.

TODAY'S meditation

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, July 29

And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ. (Acts 5:12) Read Acts 5:12-17. This text describes the daily practice of the early Christians. The coming of the Holy Spirit upon them as they waited and prayed together in the upper room had been a real experience. After His coming they were not content to sit by quietly. Indeed, they could not keep their new-found joy to themselves. This power in them stirred their feet to run and their lips to tell.

Words fail to express our amazement when we read of the early Christians. They were courageous in the face of scourging, imprisonment, persecution, and even death. In spite of all that the world did to them, they had victory.

What they had then, we can have today. God is always ready to possess our hearts and minds with His love. He wants us to go out to serve in Christ's name and for His sake. Can He depend upon us?

Prayer

Dear God, we pray for the power of the Holy Spirit to possess us. Grant unto us courage and faith to go forth each day preaching and teaching our Lord Jesus Christ by all we do or say or think in the name of Christ we pray. Amen.

Thought For The Day
Does my life preach Christ?

Phillies General Manager Says

Trend Is to Younger Managers

General Manager Roy Hamoy of the Phillies says he has seen a new spirit of aggressiveness in his club since Terry Moore took over as manager. And that, he told J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, was one of the reasons that the change in managers was made. There was need for a young man as manager, he said, and he criticized the general practice of picking older men, veterans, as club managers. The trend, he said, seems to be toward younger pilots.

"In the past," Hamoy said, "when major league clubs made a change in managers, the appointments often were passed around to a small circle of men who had previously piloted teams. This is fine in some cases. For example," he went on, "there is no better manager in the game than Casey Stengel of the Yankees. He's a master. But, in general, I believe that younger men should be given a chance."

Hamoy said that when the Phillies decided to get a new manager, Moore seemed to be the natural choice. He not only had been an outstanding player with the Cardinals, but had played in the atmosphere of a winning team. And Hamoy said, Terry's leadership qualities and abilities had been indicated by the fact that he had served as team captain of the Cardinals.

Hamoy pointed out that Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs is another example of a younger man being named manager and doing a good job. Tebbetts, he said, has instilled an aggressive and winning spirit into his charges. Moore has been asked by Hamoy to show himself more on the field, even taking parts in conferences on the mound. "The fans like to see the manager out there taking personal charge," Hamoy said, "and it also helps to keep the players on their toes."

He went on to say that while he couldn't criticize the Philly players on the ground that they were not hustling, or giving their best, he did feel that they could be more enthusiastic and aggressive. And they have shown it, he said, since Moore took over.

As for the makeup of the Phillies, Hamoy said they have strong pitching and good over-all defense but need more offensive power. "We must get some good hitters," he said, "but that's a tough job. You've got to give up some good pitching prospects in order to get more hitting power. But one thing is certain—we won't give up either Robin Roberts or Curt Simmons."

Bonus players are considered a talent source, and both Roberts and Simmons were given bonuses, but Hamoy doesn't like that plan. "Under present rules," he pointed out, "a major league club has to keep a bonus player on its roster. In 93 cases out of a hundred, the youngster needs the experience he could be getting in the minors. It isn't fair to the boy, nor to the rest of the team, to keep expensive bonus players sitting on the bench."

The Phillies aren't planning to expand their present farm system, which consists of eight clubs. And while hitting power is an urgent need right now, Hamoy said, what he is aiming at is greater bench strength. Unless you have two teams, he said, one on the bench, you can't be a winner in the major leagues.

The New York Yankees now have three Mantles in their organization. Mickey's younger brothers, 18-year-old twins Roy and Ray, have been signed, and have been sent to Meadler in the Class D Sooner State League. The Sporting News reports that the boys play both in the infield and outfield, and are strong hitters. Roy hit better than .400 and Ray over .300 in semi-pro ball last summer.

DEERING SAYS VOTING VITAL IN POTATO MARKETING REFERENDUM

"It is vital that every Maine potato grower exercise his privilege of voting on the proposed Federal marketing agreement and order program," said Dean of Agriculture Arthur L. Deering of the University of Maine.

"Only by means of a large vote on the Secretary of Agriculture for the true feelings of Maine growers in regard to the marketing program," added the Dean.

"I hope every grower will send his ballot during the referendum period, July 29 through August 4. He doesn't receive a ballot in the mail, he should ask his county agent or agent of the Extension Service for one. In the major potato areas, county agents are located at Fort Kent, Presque Isle, Bangor, Dover-Foxcroft, Bangor, and Skowhegan."

"It is up to the grower how he votes but it's his duty to vote," said Dean Deering.

STUDENTS EARNING OVER $600 SUBJECT TO FEDERAL INCOME TAXES

Many students from our schools are seeking summer employment. Those who have found work are being informed by some of their employers that they do not have to be concerned as to how much they earn during the summer months, that all the withholding tax will be refunded to them, and their parents may claim them as exemptions even though they earn over $600.00 during the summer months.

District Director of Internal Revenue Whitney L. Wheeler cautions employers and students that this statement is not correct under our present law. The proposed legislation has not been passed by the Congress of the United States which entitles the offspring of taxpayers to earn as much as they can during the summer months, that they will be tax free, and parents will be allowed to take them as dependents, even though they earn over $600.00. The law so states and still is in effect, that any person earning over $600.00 is subject to the income tax laws, and required to file a return. In the case of a student earning less than $600.00 he may be claimed as a dependent, but earning over $600.00 requires him to file a return and pay taxes if due.

Mr. Wheeler says if and when the law changes on this subject, sufficient publicity will be given notifying all taxpayers concerned. Employers should delay the giving of such information to employees, Mr. Wheeler said.

ON THE PORCH

At the end of a long Summer day When the sun's been as hot as a torch,

Nothing helps weary backs Like a chance to relax And to just sit at ease, on the porch.

There you rest - as the kids run and play In the shadowy cool of the yard. And their happiness makes You forget all the aches

That you get from a working so hard. In the morning, you hope and you pray,

It won't be so darn hot that you scorch - But to get through it all And survive until Fall

Take it easy at dusk, on the porch. -Carl C. Helm

CLOSED SATURDAYS
(Open Only by Appointment)

I THINK that you would have to look far and wide to find someone who would not agree that business needs a shot in the arm.

My amateurish diagnosis of the situation is that Mr. Consumer has gotten to the point where he buys with both eyes open. One eye on his pocketbook, the other on the family budget. Mr. Retailer doesn't have a hangover, but he's still a bit groggy after easy-spending war time years.

Time was, not so long ago, when the American consumer was making more money than ever before. He was at the same time spending as much of it as he could to buy things he really didn't need merely because they were available and he had the cash in his pocket. Closing a sale was as easy for the salesman as catching a trolley - miss one, another comes along in a minute or so.

One industrialist recently captured the situation with the remark that salesmen have been a bit slow in recapturing their sales ability while consumers lost little time in rebuilding sales resistance. He wasn't speaking of "high pressure" methods, either, but the ability to convince a potential customer that he (the customer) really needs the item he is interested in, and that said item is worth much more than the customer will have to pay.

A personal thought on the subject is that service is not included in business transactions as much as in days gone by. Customers will buy where their business is appreciated. They don't like to walk away from a transaction with the idea that the clerk gave the impression of performing a favor while accepting their money and wrapping the purchase.

NEW HAVEN RAILROAD TO SPONSOR PHOTOGRAPH CONTEST

To focus attention upon the unique attractions of New England for the tourist, the vacationer, and the sightseer, $2,200 in cash prizes will be awarded for the best photographs, in black-and-white and in color, taken in this popular resort area this summer. Anyone, amateur or professional, may compete, and the judges will include prominent men and women of New England. The contest will be sponsored by the New Haven Railroad.

$500 will be paid for the best picture in black-and-white, and the same amount for the best color slide or color print. Second prize-winners in each class will receive $200, and the third, fourth, and fifth prize-winners in each group will each receive $50. A total of 50 additional prizes of $10 each will be awarded.

The judges, according to the announcement, "Will have but one criterion: Does this picture make you want to go there?" Any spot in any of the six New England states will be eligible as a subject for the contest. Cape Cod, Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard, the Berkshires, Connecticut, Maine, Rhode Island, Shores, the White and Green Mountains, come naturally to mind. The contest closes Sept. 30, and all photos should be sent to New

SALVATION ARMY WELCOMES EVERYONE TO MEETINGS AT OLD ORCHARD BEACH

Under the leadership and planning of Colonel William H. Fox, New England commander of the organization, The Salvation Army will conduct the 1954 revival of its famed Camp meetings in the beautiful ridge-enclosed pine grove within hearing of the ocean's roar at Old Orchard Beach, Maine, from August 20-30.

Once again this beautiful setting - so aptly described as "like God's own pocket" - will resound with the voices of some of The Salvation Army's most renowned international speakers and well-known soloists and the happy notes of more than 250 musicians playing simultaneously.

There is no doubt whatsoever but that these 1954 Camp Meetings in the pine grove "where God's hosts keep constant vigil" will be among the most enthusiastic and well-attended in the long 61 years of the open air sessions of The Salvation Army, according to Colonel William H. Fox, who revived the outdoor sessions following World War II. It has been under his guidance that some of the organization's most noted international leaders including former General and Mrs. Albert Osborn, of London, England, have not only inspired thousands at these meetings but have been responsible for a remarkable growth in popularity of these revivals year after year.

Salvationists and friends from all parts of New England and many other states once again will join the Camp Meetings which, as traditionally in the past, will be open free to the general public. Every-

THIS IS NATIONAL FARM SAFETY WEEK

"Farm to live and live to farm." That's the slogan this week in Maine during the observance of National Farm Safety Week, July 25 to 31. Mardis R. Warner, Maine Extension Service engineer, is chairman of Maine's observance of the week. It's his job to help make Maine farm people realize the many dangers and hazards in farming and offer suggestions for correcting them. Machinery and animals are two of the danger points on Maine farms. Treat them with the respect they deserve, suggests Warner.

I know of nothing sublime which is not some modification of power. -Burke

The 1954 Camp Meetings will come to a resounding climax when Commissioner and Mrs. Norman S. Marshall of New York City, leaders of The Salvation Army in 11 eastern states, will conduct the final week-end sessions on Aug. 28 and 29. The mammoth Music Festival on Saturday (Aug. 28) will feature another great program of music - this time among bands representing the finest musicians in the Massachusetts and Rhode Island, Southern New England and Northern New England Divisions of The Salvation Army. They will then combine to form a Provincial United Band of more than 200 instrumentalists.

During the regular Camp Meeting on Sunday (Aug. 29) at 2:30 p. m. the new spacious bandstand, in use for the first time during the 1954 sessions and large enough to accommodate 150 persons, will be officially dedicated by Commissioner, Norman S. Marshall, the Territorial Commander.
